Size comparison information for model Stingray MD250

Some additional facts of interest regarding the MD250

- The Stingray is a V-8 diesel with 6.5L displacement turning 3600 RPM. All others listed in this comparison turn over 4400 RPM. The higher the rpm the less durable the motor
- The Stingray burns on average about half the amount of fuel.
- The MD250 is a drop in replacement for most all marine gas engines, including the ability to use the same instruments and wiring.
- The MD250 is based on the rugged Optimizer 6500. This engine is standard equipment with Hummer diesel powered trucks.
